

ENGLEFIELD ESTATE

Englefield Gardens - Find the Trees!

The gardens are home to hundreds of beautiful plants.
Here are a few things to find as you explore.

Japanese maples (acers) with their red autumn leaves.

American red oaks have larger leaves and very different bark to the familiar English oak.

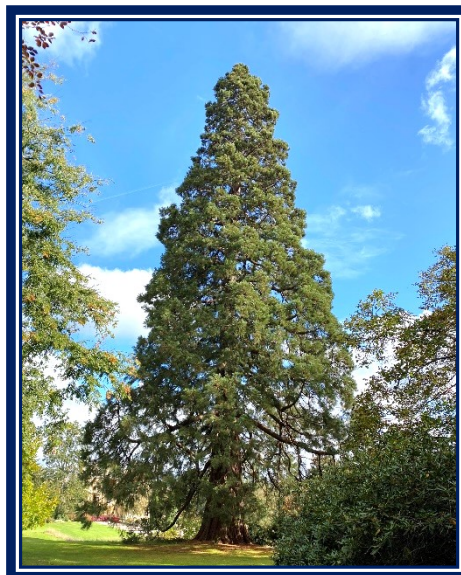

A lime tree. Lime wood is used for carving and making musical instruments.

A weeping beech tree. Is there anything underneath?

The flowering dogwood, Cornus 'Norman Haddon'. Its fruit look a bit like strawberries but don't eat them!

A giant sequoia. The oldest known example of this species was at least 3,200 years old. Ours is just a baby in comparison but it's still a big tree!
